

COUNCIL BLUFFS.

THINK THEY WERE WORKED

Numerous Business Men Pay Money to Stranger for Advertising.

SEE NO RESULT FROM THEIR INVESTMENT

Now Want the Police to Look Up the Smooth Stranger and See if Something Cannot Be Done to Him.

See again a number of the business men of Council Bluffs are trying to figure out whether they have been bunched on an advertising proposition or not. Several of them are inclined to the belief that they have been, and as a result the police have been called upon to locate the man who is alleged to have worked this city in the matter of advertising.

About a month ago a man signing himself on the Grand hotel register as O. N. Ingram dropped into the city, accompanied by a woman and a small pet terrier dog. At the same time another man, unaccompanied by wife or dog, registered at the same hotel. They were apparently strangers. Ingram was a "good fellow" and became popular among a certain class of people. He spent money freely and succeeded in securing quite a number of advertisers in what he termed a railroad man's time book. The inducement offered by Ingram was the advertising on the cover, and a number of merchants on the understanding that they alone had the cover space swallowed the bait.

The books were not delivered and investigation showed that at least thirty merchants of the city had contracted for the "exclusive" space on the cover. As soon as Ingram had collected for the advertising matter he is said to have left the city and has not been heard of since. About a week after his departure a man giving the name of W. E. Schultz and claiming St. Paul as his home appeared at the hotel with inquiries about Ingram. He also sought the assistance of the police, as he said the woman who accompanied Ingram here was his wife, Schultz.

The other man, who registered at the same hotel as Ingram, also worked a smooth scheme. He was, according to his own story, engaged in securing "write-ups" of manufacturing concerns and large business houses for a mercantile magazine. During the time he was here he said he was busy engaged in "writing up" three of the large packing houses of South Omaha. At first he displayed more or less ready cash, but toward the end of his stay he found it necessary to realize on checks. The persons who cashed these checks are now holding them as remembrances of the urbane and genial literary gentleman with a penchant for high living.

Matters in District Court.

G. W. Smith, a junk dealer of this city, indicted on the charge of stealing nearly a carload of old rubber from A. P. Krenencher, engaged in the same business at Grand Island, Neb., was acquitted by a jury in the district court yesterday. Krenencher claimed that Smith stole the rubber from a freight car in Omaha, while Smith's defense was that he purchased the stuff in the vicinity of this city.

E. D. McClelland and Robert Stevenson, charged with breaking into and robbing the Herman grocery store, on South Main street, weakened the jury to try their case was part drawn and entered pleas of guilty as charged.

The trial of J. W. Dailey, the one-armed tramp charged with snatching a gold watch and chain from Henry White, a stock dealer of Gretna, Neb., will be taken up Monday. Henry Hall, indicted at the previous term of court for breaking into a Northwestern freight car and stealing a large quantity of carriages, will be tried at the close of the Dailey case. He is at present under arrest at the city jail, charged with holding up and robbing an old man named T. L. Condy.

The attorneys for George Matheson, the young man convicted on the charge of shooting Deputy Sheriff Baker with intent to commit murder, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday.
